Significant changes to the University's publishing sector are expected following the adoption of the draft new version of the Procedure for Forming the List of Scientific Professional Publications, initiated by the Ministry of Education and Science (MES) of Ukraine. The draft is currently under legislation stage after public discussion, in which the University actively participated.

The draft provides for:

- Changing the principles of forming editorial boards of scientific publications;
- Creating ranked lists of scientific publications within clusters based on the results of the Commission's evaluation;
- Excluding publications from the List if they engage in predatory publishing practices or collaborate with "paper mills."

Guest Post – Taxonomy of Delegation: How GAIDeT Reframes AI Transparency in Science, an Interview with Yana Suchikova

Editor's Note: In today's post, Frances Pinter, Director, Academic Relations, Central European University Press, speaks with Professor Yana Suchikova, Vice-Rector for Research at Berdyansk State Pedagogical University.

In a recent Scholarly Kitchen post summarizing the COPE Forum on “emerging AI dilemmas,” editors urged a shift from detection to transparent disclosure: “AI transparency is not about shame; it's about intellectual honesty.” We spoke with Professor Yana Suchikova about GAIDeT – the Generative AI Delegation Taxonomy, which enables researchers to disclose the use of generative AI in an honest and transparent way.
